

AZTECS

By Greyson, Nevaeh, and Mason

AZTECS MAP

The Aztecs would consumer and destroy civilization. Human Sacrifice was a important religious. They played a game called Tlachtli and would use their hips and arms to hit a rubber band.

CITY

Texcoco Was a city that flourished between A.D. 1325 and 1521. Built on a island with a lake around it and it was called

Aztec schools

The Aztec schools were more sophisticated compared to other. Every child was educated. There was different kinds of school. For the first 14 years of their life they were homeschooled.

The ruler

Their rulers name was Montezuma II. The Aztec government was similar to a monarch where an Emperor or king. They called their ruler Huey Tlatoani and he was the ruler of all ALL land.

A background image showing stone ruins, possibly an Aztec site, with a path leading through the structures. The stones are reddish-brown and arranged in a grid-like pattern. There are some green plants and trees in the distance.

HERNAN CORTES

Hernan Cortes was a Spanish conquistador. He went to the new world to find glory. He was supposed to go but his trip got shut down. He ignored them and went anyway. When he got there he settled Aztec. When Cortes met the Aztecs they were very welcoming but soon relations quickly got bad. The ruler of the Aztecs was suspicious and worried of an attack. Cortes took him hostage for a huge ransom. An Aztec revolt began which killed the Aztec ruler. The Spanish were driven out of the city sustaining many losses. Hernan Cortes organized more men and fought and brought smallpox which killed the Aztecs.

Religion Believes Aztec

The Aztec Religion originated From The Indigenous Aztec of Central Mexico. Like Other Mesoamerican Religions it also has practices Such as human Sacrifice In Connection With many religious festivals Which Is in the aztec calendar.

What did you learn?